Founders Day | June 2nd

Craig was the original founder of Lampire and brought Gregory F. Krug on as a partner in the company's early days. In the late 70s, the company had its start with an idea when another firm approached Craig about buying his horse farm for use as a research farm for the production of defibrinated sheep blood.

In addition to being Greg's business partner, Craig was more importantly, his mentor, friend, and confidant. He treated Greg like a son and referred to him as his adopted son. He gave Greg the motivation to succeed and to believe through his words, actions, and beliefs. Many nights were spent with his family having lively debates and discussions which were always powerful and lots of fun. He was truly Greg's prayers answered, and the time spent with him was a very special time in Greg's life.

Lampire has grown astronomically since then, which would not have been possible without Craig. He retired to North Carolina to be with his family and grandchildren while remaining in touch and always there to lend support. Many may remember Craig's presence and speech during our 25th Anniversary Celebration and Everett Bioprocessing Center Grand Opening in 2007. In honor of Craig, and his great impact on Lampire, June 2nd has become known as Founder's Day at LAMPIRE. Craig's life, contributions, impact, and memories are honored and celebrated.
